Wheat and corn—a few days ago
One afternoon, about four months ago, he visited a "first class house" in Mercer street, if half of the farmers will harvest as much wheat as they sowed last fall. Corn is very low for the time of year, and very much in the weeds. Some have not commenced plowing their corn yet, and some are notyet done planting; nor do I think will finish this year. Among that number is your humble correspondent.

sown this season, owing to the great atagnation in the hemp market; and what has been, as a in the hemp maket; and what has been, as a general thing, does not promise a good yield, the worms having damaged it considerably. The oat and meadow crops promise a fairer yield than anything else; yet, if it still continues to rain for a few days longer, the oats will grow so tall and rank, they will fall down will grow so tall and rank, they will fall down and cot.

The present year presents to the farmer of this part of the country quite a gloomy aspect, when he counts up the amount of his liabilities, and only looks to the productions of his farm to meet them. Nearly everybody in this country is more or less in debt for land, which

which has made it very unpleasant traveling but now, I suppose, they have as fine cars as there are in the Union. The contractors say they will have the road finished by Christmas. The charter runs out this year, which, I suppose, is spurring them up. There is considerable business doing on it already, and I think, when finished, it will pay the stockholders about as well as any road in the West. Since ts location, towns have sprung up on it almost as by magic; some to make places of note, one of the most superb assortments of MASONIC and others only to "mark the place of their and others only to "mark the place of their former greatness." Business is quite brisk. There have been several land trades in this vicinity recently, at prices ranging from fifteen to twenty-three dollars per acre. Robert Haskins, Esq., has just returned from your city, whither he has been to buy his second stock of goods since April. This will be some evidence of the business propects of our little town.

Yours truly, MURDERED AND ROBBED .- The Chicago Union gives the following account of a horrible murder lately perpetrated near Linden, Michigan :

The anthor of this crime had been lurking around the Ferry for eight or ten days, pretending to be fishing. The ferryman's name is Ira Wilson, and it was upon him that this diabolical villian made his attack. Mr. Wilson had been hoeing in his garden, and had laid aside his hoe to pull some weeds, when the Irishman cantiously seized the hoe and and struck him with the whole blade on the back of the head, splitting his skull open full four inches; he then struck a second blow, crosswise, cutting a gash two or four inches; the third blow cut off one ear, passing down the side of his neck, severing his jaw-bone; the fourth blow was struck with the corner of the hoe under his eye.

After he supposed he had killed him he robbed him, and carried him to the bank, threw him into the river, and left him. But Wilson recovered sufficiently to get into his skiff and ferry himself across the river, and then crawled about sixty rods, where he lay two hours before he was discovered. He says he does not remember DEFERENCES, LOUISVILLE—S.

SCANDAL IN THE CHURCH-A CLERGYMAN AND A CLASS LEADER IN TROUBLE.—During the revival season of last winter, a beautiful young girl of eighteen, residing in Madison street, became the subject of impressions, and under the

The Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad is completed on this (the West) end, about thirty miles out, and the cars are making one trip every day. There is a mail connection by coaches between the Eastern and Western ends of the road, which facilitates our St. Louis mail to this place considerably above the tedious old route up the river. Until yesterday, there have been using a kind of baggage car for the transportation of passengers, which has made it very unpleasant traveling.

Late on Saturday night, after the young ladies had all retired, and each was seen to be in her own bed, and the lights extinguished, Miss Hewitt stole ont of the instition, and was married to Myer, between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock at night, by Joseph Cole, Justice of the Peace, at the house plenty of timber convenient for all purposes; as fine water, both spring and well, as ever gushed from the crystal fountains of "old mother er earth," and withal, surrounded by a peaceable and industrious community. Russet tvitte, Omo, Jan. 10, 1855. Er. C. M. Jackson-Doar Sir: We would inform you that we are out of Mcoffand's German Billers, whilelers very ready sale. TRRRIBLE ACCIDENT IN THE SCHUVLKILL COUNTY COAL MINES.—We are pained to an-nounce the occurrence of a sad catastrophe, the result, it is to be feared, of circlessness. It appears that about noon, ou Tuesday last, men and two boys ascended the shaft at the Thomastowu colliery, in a car resting on a cage When within a few inches of the top, a pin up on which the cage rests when it reaches the top was pulled out too soon, and the car was not ou a level with the platform sufficiently to permit it to be rolled off the cage. In this position two of the wheels of the car were rolled off the cage; but it was found impossible to get the other wheels off. A signal was then given to the en-gincer, who could not see the position of the cage, to hoist it a little. Unfortunately it was hoisted too high; the car was tilted, was freed cutirely from the cage, and the next instant, with its freight of precious lives, consisting of four men and two bays, was dashed down the shaft, a perpendicular depth of two hundred and fortu feet. We had an elopement since I wrote you which occasioned some little stir in our quiet little village. Underwood Gorin (son of Frank Gorin, of your city) became enamoured of a Miss Saufley, daughter of C. H. Saufley, of this place, and, remembering the old maxim, that if faint heart never won fair lady, "he mustered courage to inform the young lady of that fact, and communicated to her, with throbbing heart and burning words, low his young heart was hers. Miss Saufley, finding that she had become sole owner and proprietor of his heart, and that she alone was the object of his most devout adoration and wildest worship, concluded the best she could do, under the circumstances, was to give him hers in return. We ed the best she could do, under the circumstances, was to give him hers in return. We are told, by the immortal Shakspeare, that "the course of true-love never did run smooth;" and so it was in this case, for the young lady had a father, and futhers, sometimes, are antiunion men, especially when a lavorite daughter is about to unite her destiny in matrimony with some young man of whom they are not particularly fond.

On the night of the 25th of June, Mr. Gotin, with a large party of his friends, succeeded in accomplishing his wishes. A ladder was placed from the outside of her father's house, against a window, upon which she descended (her room being above stairs), and, mounting horses which were in readiness, away the happy couple went to Tennessee, accompanied by Miss Laura Vaughn and her brother Benjamin. In a few days they returned, united in hearts and united in hands. returned, united in hearts and united in hands.
